

JTEKT INSIDE - October 2022

Introduction

JTEKT Bearings (formerly Koyo Bearings) is a global manufacturer and supplier of highly engineered bearings for a large diversity of demanding industrial applications. Besides those applications, specific bearings are supplied in high volumes for daily consumer products that must meet the strictest specifications related to reliability, durability, high accuracy, low noise and low friction (to reduce energy consumption) and in a very cost competitive environment.

Office, home appliances, hobby and leisure

Products range from office copiers and printers to home appliances like washing machines, vacuum cleaners and electric vans, while hobby- and leisure applications include a variety of products like electric garden trimmers, jet skis and fishing gears.
